NORFOLK ISLAND PHILATELIC BUREAU

BULLETIN #3 2011

Dear Collector,

Before I get too involved in writing this bulletin I wish to inform all of the customers of the Norfolk Island Philatelic Bureau that this is my last bulletin. I have resigned from my position here in the Bureau and will be returning to the mainland.

It has been a pleasure working with the girls in the Bureau and working to meet the collecting requirements of all of our customers.

We are gradually moving into the winter of Norfolk Island but I must say up until today we have been experiencing clear blue skies and quite a bit of sunshine.

Having said that, today is grey and overcast but the wind is in the North and we have fog on the mountain.

For the past 4 years Norfolk Island has hosted the Tourism Awards and a Gala Dinner to celebrate the occasion was held at the "Paradise Hotel". The winner this year was Agnes Hain. Agnes came to Norfolk Island in the 1960s and over the years has ventured into many tourism enterprises. Her first business here was the introduction of caravans for visiting adventure travellers. Agnes then built the first mini golf course, a toy shop, that over the years sold many boxes of Lego, Duplo and Meccano. Agnes established a park land (Walk in the Wild) and even introduced the "Bright Ideas" competition which encouraged people to come forward with ideas to expand and improve Norfolk Island's revenue base. With such an entrepreneurial background we can only congratulate Agnes, her staff and all the other category winners.

Last week was an especially busy one here on the island with the 2011 Country Music Festival. This year Norfolk Island welcomed an impressive line up of well known artists from both Australia and New Zealand.

The Cruise Ship, Pacific Pearl, arrived in Norfolk Island and 1600 passengers were able to alight and enjoy a day of shopping, sightseeing, island hospitality and almost summer weather conditions.

Norfolk Island was visited by Dawn Fraser this month. Many of you will know that Dawn is a high achieving Australian athlete who on many occasions has done the sporting world proud. A dinner at Government House was held in her honour and Ms Fraser also visited the Norfolk Island Central School to meet the children and address the school assembly.

Regards

NEW STAMP ISSUES

25th Anniversary of Norfolk Island National Park 1986 - 2011 Celebrating 25 years of conservation

The Norfolk Island National Park and Norfolk Island Botanic Garden protects over 655 hectares of the remote Territory of Norfolk Island. Set in the south-west Pacific Ocean, the Territory provides a link between tropical and temperate oceanic island environments and is home to unique assemblages of flora and fauna.

The park and Garden provide habitat and breeding areas for endemic species, migratory birds and large colonies of breeding seabirds. They protect remnant areas of subtropical rainforest and viney hardwood forest which once covered much of the Island.

Management of the National Park and Botanic Garden has a strong focus on the protection of existing native flora and fauna and habitat restoration through the control of invasive species, planting of native vegetation and implementation of erosion control measures.

The National Park and Botanic Garden provide educational, scientific, cultural and recreational opportunities for Norfolk Island residents and visitors and a valuable resource for the Norfolk Island tourism industry.

This stamp issue recognises 25 Years of Conservation Success and acknowledges the hard work of Rangers in the Norfolk Island National Parks.

Norfolk Island Abutilon - Abutilon julianae

This low-growing plant was considered extinct until rediscovered on Phillip Island in 1985. When the last of the goats, pigs and rabbits were removed from Phillip Island, the abutilon started recolonising. Propagation and active planting is also securing this species future on Norfolk Island.

Phillip Island Hibiscus - Hibiscus insularis

While the entire wild population of this plant is confined to Phillip Island, thanks to widespread plantings it is now well distributed throughout Norfolk Island. Its beautiful flowers are cream to light green with a dark magenta centre when they first open. The flowers then redden as they age.

Popwood - Myoporum obscurum

These often dome-shaped small trees grow to about 6 metres tall in open areas of forests. Their shiny green leaves have a black tip and often black margin. Prolific, scented white flowers in summer are followed by pea-sized purple berries. Through active management, these trees are increasing in number and distribution within the park and garden.

Broad-leaved Meryta - Meryta latifolia

One of Norfolk's plant success stories, this species is on the road to recovery. In the early 2000s, there were only about 20 female plants left, but with propagation and replanting the numbers have increased dramatically.

The vulnerable narrow-leaved meryta, Meryta angustifolia, is similar, but with narrower leaves.
